2.3. Descripción del proyecto y expectativas EN Project description and expectations FR Description du projet et attentes DE Projektbeschreibung und Erwartungen PT Descrição do projeto e expectativas	Fidiana High School has developed the Fidiciencia program (https://www.fidiciencia.com/), which aims to promote STEAM literacy by developing students' scientific and technological competence. The program introduces secondary school students to key concepts in Research, Development, and Innovation (R+D+I), as well as the operations of major scientific institutions and companies.

Over the past seven years, a dedicated team of teachers has fostered the use of scientific methodology in our classrooms, encouraging student autonomy, teamwork, and the application of appropriate research methods. We have participated in research and innovation groups across Andalusia. As a result, our 4th-year ESO and 1st-year Bachillerato students have been engaged in scientific research using real-world methods.

These students have collaborated on projects led by researchers from the University of Córdoba, the Spanish National Research Council (CSIC), and IMIBIC. The projects involved hands-on experimental sessions, after which the students produced research reports and scientific posters summarizing their findings. Supported by their teachers and researchers, they presented their work at an annual student-led scientific congress.

We currently hold Erasmus+ KA120 accreditation (valid until 2027) and have partnered with several European schools, including the Lycée Sainte-Marthe Chavagnes in Angoulême (France), The Lycée Saint-Dominique in Nantes (France), the Europagymnasium in Klagenfurt (Austria) the BG St Martin in Villach (Austria), the Szkol Urszulanki in Poznan (Poland) , the Nannaskolan in Uppsala (Sweden), and the Liceo Vittoria Colonna in Rome (Italy). We are now seeking new partnerships to broaden our international network.
